1. For at least the last 18 months, the Office of Training has included in its course offerings an extensive coverage of the Agency's relations with the Congress, as seen from both the Agency and Congressional points of view.

the Guest Speaker Program on 14 December, but the Senator has canceled his appearance.)

Senior Seminar

"Congressional Oversight of the Agency and Intelligence Community," Elliott Maxwell, Staff Member, Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Activities

3. In addition, the Church Committee Report and Executive Order #11905 are cited in these courses and copies made available to the students.

4. In our operations courses, we discuss in detail STATINTL both Executive Order #11905 and HR [redacted]. During these discussions, we touch on the role of the Church Committee, the Rockefeller Commission, and the House Select Committee.
Although some members of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and their staff aides have visited the [redacted] STATINTL
STATINTL [redacted], we do not have a program where we routinely invite them to observe or address our operations courses.

5. Within the past year, the Intelligence Process Course and the Senior Seminar have visited Capitol Hill for a full day of briefings and discussions with Members of Congress and their staffs. Frequent last-minute cancellations by Senators, Congressmen, and staffers caused us to abandon such visits, however.

SUBJECT: OTR Coverage of CIA's Relations with Congress

6. We believe that this coverage, with subsequent give and take among speakers and class members, succeeds in conveying the nature, magnitude, and thrust of our relationships with the Congress.

NOTE FOR: Legislative Counsel

George:

Please take a look at the attached. As you will recall, Senator Hart raised with me his concern that the Congress and its new-found relationship with intelligence is inadequately understood in the field. In this connection I asked Jack Blake to ensure that our orientation and training courses have adequate reference to Congressional matters. Jack has given me the attached memo. Is there more that we can do? I note that while we may have a large number of speakers addressing various Agency courses, there is no reference either to the kinds of literature or written materials on the subject provided for students and those involved in orientation.

Do you have any suggestions?
